

Saint Peter's

UNIVERSITY

Instructor/Assistant Professor in Chemistry

Description: The Chemistry Department at Saint Peter's University invites applications for a full-time non-tenure track position at the rank of Instructor/Assistant Professor beginning in fall of 2019. The successful candidate will have excellent teaching and communication skills and be able to teach General Chemistry and Organic Chemistry lecture and laboratory. Primary duties include but are not limited to: teaching four courses per semester, helping develop experiments for the teaching laboratory, student advising, holding regular office hours, and participating and attending college and university events and/or committees. A Masters Degree or preferably a Ph.D. in Chemistry with previous teaching or industry experience is desired.

About Saint Peter's University: Saint Peter's is one of 28 Jesuit colleges and universities in the United States. Established in 1872, Saint Peter's University blends a unique learning experience for students shaped by rigorous academics, internships that provide real-world experience, community service, and a caring community that supports the development of whole student. Serving more than 3500 students undergraduate, masters and doctoral programs, full-time undergraduate enrollment at Saint Peter's has grown over 20% in the last five years making it the faster growing independent university in New Jersey. Saint Peter's was named first among institutions across the nation as the recipient of the 2018 ACE/Fidelity Investments Award for Institutional Transformation. For 2019, U.S. News and World Report has ranked Saint Peter's 12th for "Best Value" in the Regional Universities North Category, making it the best value in New Jersey.

Saint Peter's main campus is located in Jersey City, the second largest and the most diverse city in New Jersey. The campus is easily accessible by car or public transportation and is minutes from the Journal Square PATH train (via campus shuttle, city bus, taxi, or walking). This station is a major hub connecting Jersey City with Newark and Hoboken, and with New York City, a global center of culture, business, and professional opportunities. Saint Peter's at the Meadowlands campus is located in Lyndhurst near major highways (New Jersey Turnpike, Routes 3 and 17).

Where to apply:

<https://saintpeters.peopleadmin.com/postings/1268>